Band Plays "Star Spangled Banner" as Two Year Old Child Lies in Street

Child of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Nicholas the Victim at Memorial Day Observance

NEWS KEPT FROM SICK MOTHER

Fear that Shock of Death Would Be Fatal to the Mother Who Is Seriously Ill

RUSHFORD, Minn., June 1.—A two year old child was ground to death under the wheels of a heavy wagon here Memorial day, while hundreds of persons looked helplessly on.

She was Mary, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicholas of this place.

Team Is Frightened. The Memorial day address was over. The band started to play "The Star Spangled Banner." The little tot, left alone for the moment, waded into the center of the road. A farm team, frightened and dashed down the street. The child was in their path.

Death Instantaneous. A mangled and torn mass, the child was picked up by Mack Webster and rushed to the office of the nearest physician. Death was instantaneous, however, and nothing could be done by the doctor.

Women screamed and men ran to the scene. The horses were stopped, but not before the death was caused.

Mother Is Ill. The child's mother has been ill at her home for two weeks. She is suffering with a very severe attack of nephritis. She has not been told of the death of her little girl yet, for the doctors and nurses, who are constantly watching her, fear the terrible shock would kill her, too.

Powerless to Act. The news of the accident quickly spread over the town and surrounding country. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas being among the most prominent residents of Rushford.

People were just coming from the park, after paying honor to the nation's heroes, when the child was ground to death.

Hundreds were there, and saw, but were powerless to prevent.

HUNDREDS GET FLAG GIFTS FROM TRIBUNE ON MEMORIAL DAY

Nearly 3,500 children, boys and girls of La Crosse, secured flags from The Tribune Friday afternoon and Saturday for Memorial day. The supply was exhausted Friday night, but more were secured early Saturday morning.

Long before 9 o'clock these were gone, and scores who wanted to wear the flags to honor the soldier dead of the nation, were unable to secure them.

The children were not the only ones to get the flags, however. Many women, as well as men, called at The Tribune office, and were given the emblems.

In the parade and at the cemetery, these flags were very much in evidence. The hundreds who got them wore them all during the day in honor of the men who fought in the wars for the United States.

DEATH DISCUSSED BY HOUSTON MEN

Andrew Carlson and Alf Johnson Believed to have Perished on Liner • Joked Over Dangers

OFFICIAL PASSENGER LIST OUT

Names of All First Cabin Passengers Secured; Mrs. Alvin Anderson Went Down with Ship

"Shall we be drowned going over, or coming back?" "Better drown going over; if we wait for the return trip we may have wives or sweethearts with us."

The foregoing conversation took place between Andrew Carlson and Alf Johnson, both bachelors, when talking with a group of friends at Houston, Minn., the day before they took train for Toronto, Canada, to take passage on the ill-fated Empress of Ireland.

It was said in friendly banter, but it was no joke.

News dispatches today brought practically direct word that Mrs. Alvin Anderson of Barron, Wis., formerly a resident of Houston, Minn., and a member of the Houston party on the Empress, had gone down with the ship.

Died With Another

She and another woman, Mrs. Carl Fieft, also of Barron, were with Charles Swanson, who was picked up badly hurt. He declared that he did not know what had become of his companions, and they are still missing. They are listed among the missing in the consular report to Washington of the Americans among the Empress' company.

Reinholdt Boch, Rochester, Minn., is also among the dead in the disaster. His body was among the first recovered. Miss Edith Boch, his daughter, was among those who were in one of the two lifeboats which were launched. She was saved.

Passenger List

The official list of cabin passengers from the United States aboard the ill-fated Empress of Ireland as given today by Vice Consul General Gorman at Montreal, was as follows:

First class—Mrs. F. M. Dunlevy, Denver, missing. Second class: Missing—Bessie Bawden, Hillsboro, Ind.; Reinholdt Boch, Rochester, Minn.; Florence Bawden, Hillsboro, Ind.; Elmer Bunthorne, Santa Barbara, Cal.; Mrs. John Fisher, Chicago; Mrs. M. Gray, Terre Haute, Ind.; A. Matier, Indianapolis; Mrs. W. Maunsey, Chicago; J. R. Heath, Chicago; Jennie Newton, Antler, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. George C. Richards, Terre Haute, Ind.; Miss W. Gray, Terre Haute, Ind.; N. L. Heath, Chicago; George Johnston, Santa Barbara, Cal.; Miss Eva Searle, Seattle, Wash.

Second class: Rescued—Edith Boch, Rochester, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Freeman, West Allis, Wis. Gorman believes a great many Americans were in the 750 steerage passengers. In a second message American Consul Rider at Rimouski, reported finding in the lines of wounded, Charles Swanson of Barron, Wis., who said he was accompanied from there by Mrs. Carl Fieft, and Mrs. Alvin Anderson, who were going to Gotburg. The two women are among the missing.

Gorman took charge of Herman Murawski and his daughter, Freda, second class passengers, and Miss Boch. They have left for Quebec to receive the body of Mr. Boch which was recovered among the first of the victims.

Mr. and Mrs. George Richards of Terre Haute, Ind., are among the survivors, Rider reported.

ASKS EXPULSION FROM MUSICIANS' UNION IN LETTER

Leigh Toland, Philharmonic Society Head, Writes a Stinging Letter to Unionists

IGNORANCE, GREED AND JEALOUSY

These are Called Reasons for Trouble Between Local Musicians and Organization

STATEMENT ISSUED BY UNION

Trouble with Individuals and Not with the Union Is the Claim They Make

"Don't you think it is high time to read out of your union men who stand for nothing but selfishness and discord?" From a letter written by Leigh Toland, president of the Philharmonic society to Herman Schuman, secretary of the Musicians' union of La Crosse.

Certain members of the Musicians' union of La Crosse, face expulsion because of the "row" with the Philharmonic society.

The Philharmonic—strictly a La Crosse and public institution—has had trouble with the union, or rather as Leigh Toland, president of the organization, puts it, trouble with two or three of its members.

What Complaint Is

Mr. Toland wrote an extended letter to the secretary of the union, Herman Schuman. Extract follows:

"I am sure that you and every other fair minded member of the union, wants to know just exactly my cause for complaint. I will tell you. I made arrangements with a member of the union for hiring nine men and was advised that these nine men would cost $55. Now, what I want to know is why we should be charged a higher rate than that adopted by the union for concerts and rehearsals?"

Questions Unionism

"Through the act of one man, or men, we had to pay about $40 more than the union scale, and I know that a large number were willing to donate their services."

Are With Union

Mr. Toland says the Philharmonic is with the union and has been all the time:

"We have shown it in the past and will prove it in the present and in the future. All that we ask is that you know the facts and that you do not be influenced by words of those whose only interest is in deceiving you and deceiving the public through ignorance, greed and jealousy."

Musicians Talk

The following is a communication issued by the union, in response to Mr. Toland's letter:

"To the Citizens of LaCrosse:

"In an article which appeared in a LaCrosse paper May 22, it was inferred that there is a row between the Philharmonic society and the La Crosse local of musicians."

Stand of Union

"We take this opportunity to state that there is absolutely no (Continued on page 6.)

MAJORITY OF THE COMMITTEE NOT FOR CONVENTION

Twelve of Twenty-two on State Central Board of Democrats Are Against the Meeting

AYLWARD OPPOSES BIG GATHERING

His Opponents Claim He Is Afraid Convention Would Eliminate Him; Karel Only Candidate

KNEEN FOR ASSEMBLY SPEAKER

La Crosse County Man Almost Certain of Honor in the Event Democracy Carries State in Fall

That the Wilson democrats of the state will put an entire state ticket into the field to run against "Ikey" Karel and the other candidates of the standard democratic faction, and that there would be no state convention of the party, was the word telephoned to The Tribune this afternoon from the state central committee meeting at Milwaukee today.

The Tribune advises declare that of 22 members of the committee, twelve were already pledged to oppose the proposed convention.

A meeting of progressive democrats will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock, in which a complete state ticket of Wilson democrats will be selected.

John C. Burns left today for Milwaukee to attend a meeting of the democratic state central committee.

Whether or not to hold a state convention is the big question to be decided by the committee.

The Karel-Bolens faction favors the convention. The progressive wing, led by John A. Aylward, Madison, William F. Wolfe and John C. Burns of La Crosse, and others oppose it.

Mr. Burns left here declaring that he will fight the convention plan.

In reality, the democratic party in Wisconsin is split into two wings—at the head of one being John A. Aylward of Madison, one of the candidates for United States senator, and the other branch led by John C. Karel. Aylward is opposed to a state convention.

Expect Trouble

There are some who predict trouble at the meeting of the democratic state committee today. Three of the members of this committee are absent from the state, or ineligible, and a contest will center over the recognition of their proxies. Albert G. Schmedeman of Madison, one of the members, is now minister in Norway. Charles McDonald of Wittenberg holds a position at Washington, and T. H. Ryan, formerly of Merrill, now lives at Wausau in another district. Unless their proxies are recognized it is said the Karel forces will have a majority of the committee.

Aylward Confident

Aylward believes that a contest within the democratic ranks at the primaries accumulates momentum of interest that would tend to carry the party through to victory in November. Then, too, there is another candidate for United States senator besides Aylward in the person of Senator Paul O. Huston of Mayville, Dodge county. A convention might eliminate Aylward, which would be considered a defeat of the contingent of the party of which he is the ostensible leader.

Although Karel made his announcement only one week ago, it was a foregone conclusion for many months that nothing could prevent him entering the race. The stage was well set for his becoming a gubernatorial candidate at this time. A committee of democratic citizens waited upon him, presenting him with a list of 10,000 names in the form of a call. One by one the leaders who had been mentioned for governor had declined. Among these were H. A. Moehlenpach of Clinton; Judge J. E. Dodge of Milwaukee; John H. Roemer, chairman of the state railroad commission; Adolph J. Schmitz, of Milwaukee; William F. Wolfe of this city, remained silent. H. W. Bolens, who said he'd never run again, is mentioned for lieutenant governor, and Charles A. Kadling, mayor of Watertown, and Elmore T. Elver, of Madison, will leave it to the convention if one is called to decide which shall become a candidate for attorney general. Both the Aylward and Karel forces are busy in legislative districts. Candidates are vying with each other to see which can issue the strongest platform calling for a curbing of state expenditures.

Aided to Boost Tax

Aylward started this campaign for lower taxes by a speech before the Saturday Lunch club at Madison early in the spring. Since that time his address has been published and widely circulated throughout the state.

969 DEAD IS LATEST ESTIMATE OF LOST IN CANADIAN DISASTER

GO TO CLAIM FIANCES' BODIES

CHICAGO, June 1.—Enroute to Quebec, to claim the bodies of their fiances, who lost their lives in the Empress of Ireland disaster, Thomas Edington and Robert McChord of Hillsboro, Ill., left Chicago today. The girls were Florence and Bessie Bawden. A double marriage was to have taken place in September in Hillsboro, following their visit to their old home in Birchwater, England.

RELATIVES HUNT IN MORGUE FOR LOST LOVED ONES

About 100 of 188 Bodies Taken to Quebec Have Been Identified

MANY FIND GRAVES IN VESSEL

Most of the Missing Are Thought Still in Their Berths on the Empress

WILL NOT RAISE SUNKEN SHIP

Will Shatter Her Hulk with Dynamite to Clear the Channel

QUEBEC, June 1.—Figures issued here today by the Canadian Pacific railroad officers place the list of the dead in the Empress of Ireland disaster at 969. This, officials say, probably will be the final toll.

Identification of the dead brought here from the scene of the wreck by the government steamer Lady Grey went on today. So far about 100 of the 188 brought from Rimouski have been recognized by friends or relatives. All day little groups of saddened people visited the morgue searching for loved ones.

The list made up by the C. P. R. shows that fifty-five first cabin passengers perished, 688 second and third class and 226 of the crew. No further bodies have been recovered than were taken out of the water by the steamers Lady Evelyn and Eureka directly after the disaster. It is believed most of those still missing lie in the berths in the sunken liner. The Empress probably will never be raised, it was said today. She must, however, be gotten out of the channel and dynamite is likely to be used to shatter her into fragments. No decision has yet been reached as to when the funerals of those victims unclaimed by relatives will be held. Probably they will be buried one day this week. They probably will be given a civic funeral.

DIES IN HOSPITAL

Peter Olson, a farm implement dealer of Mt. Sterling, Ill., died Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at a local hospital of a complication of diseases. The body has been shipped to Lynxville, where the funeral will be held Wednesday.

WENDLING IS OUT RULING OF COURT

Decision Is Handed Down Upholding the Police and Fire Body

Judge E. C. Higbee of the circuit court late this afternoon sustained the police and fire commission in its action in dismissing John Wendling from the police force.

Wendling was fired by the commission because of an alleged "beer party" at one of the breweries. A couple of days after that he was made head of detectives of this division of the Milwaukee road.

The court, after reviewing the evidence, found that the commission had power to try, and dismiss, Wendling and that no bad faith was shown in its action.

Wendling could not be reached this afternoon and it is impossible to state what action he will take now.

FRENCH CABINET QUILTS

PARIS, June 1.—Premier Doumergue and his cabinet resigned today. The resignations were effective officially today but the ministry will remain in office until tomorrow, because of the action of President Poincaré, who is in Brittany. He was expected to return to Paris tomorrow, when the resignations will be placed in his hands.

The resignation of the Doumergue cabinet came as a result of the severe toward socialism which the May elections indicated would be necessary. Several of the cabinet members made it known that they would rather resign than make the changes that would be demanded by Jean Jaurès and the other socialists, 102 strong in the chamber.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Queer Old Woman and Her Pets.

DADDY had heard of such a funny old woman that day, and, of course, his very first thought was to tell Jack and Evelyn about it. "This old woman," commenced daddy, "lived all alone. Her house at one time had been beautiful, and her garden, although not large, had been very pretty.

"But she had let everything rather fall to pieces, and, besides, she had grown poorer.

"Her chief delight in life was to have all the chickens, geese and ducks she could, and she let them walk anywhere they pleased. They could go right into the parlor or into the kitchen, whichever suited their fancy. Luckily, for the sake of the parlor, they really preferred the kitchen. All the food was there, and they liked to eat better than anything else.

"Now, this old woman was very peculiar, too, and she looked it. But the funniest thing about her was that all the animals she had were queer looking too. The geese seemed to be a little different from any other geese. The ducks had even more hideous feet than most ducks have, and they were all of rather strange colors.

"One day not very long ago there flew around the neighborhood a strange looking bird. He seemed to be quite alone.

"He seemed so lonely that people wondered where he came from and whether he would stay with them long. They imagined he might have forgotten where his home was or that he had lost his way.

"But soon, to their great surprise, they saw him playing with the strange looking geese, ducks and chickens that belonged to the old woman. He never wanted to fly in the house, but they saw that she brought out water and crumbs to him.

"And he seemed perfectly happy. The people around thought that all queer animals like to be together. Maybe they feel then that no one will think they are queer if they stick together and show that there are a number of them. It was very nice for them that the old woman liked queer animals for they had a good home, whereas people who would have cared about having good looking animals would not have bothered about them.

"Well, it made the funniest looking place, for it didn't seem natural to see quite so many strange looking creatures. They all did seem to be happy and to be enjoying life. They all acted as if the coming of the bird was a great compliment for them. They made a great fuss over him, and he in turn was much pleased with their praise and flattery, for he had never been dattered in his life before.

"And the old woman welcomed with joy one more strange creature."

FEMALE IS MORE DEADLY THAN MALE

Biological Department at "U" in Measure Bears Out Theory of Rudyard Kipling

FEMALE MOSQUITO DANGEROUS

Danger of Disease by Male Less Than from His Mate; Ways to Kill Them Off

MADISON, Wis., June 1.—The female mosquito is more harshly condemned than the male by members of the biological department of the state university who have undertaken to show how the mosquito world may be depopulated.

"Among mosquitoes members of the fair sex are fierce blood suckers and who inject an irritating poison under our skins, and they may accompany the dose of toxin with a few fever germs. The males lead a comparatively tame existence," says one member of the university biology department.

"There is little danger," he continues, "of malarial or other mosquito-borne infection in Wisconsin. The speckle-winged Anopheles, the malaria mosquito, hibernates during the winter in our attics, cellars and closets, but the absence of infected people and our low annual mean temperature will prevent malaria from ever becoming prevalent in this state. However, the presence of our many lakes and other standing water often makes mosquitoes an intolerable pest.

"The female mosquito gorges herself with blood in order that the eggs may have abundant nourishment. She deposits her little egg raft on the surface of quiet water during the night and it floats there until the larvae hatch. The larvae are the 'wigglers' or 'wiggles' which are seen in ponds and rain water barrels the world over. Though mosquito larvae always develop in water, they must breathe air and frequently come to the surface. After a few days the larvae shed its skin and becomes a big-headed pupa which rests at the surface until it splits up the back to allow the adult mosquito to emerge. This emerging business is a delicate operation which cannot be carried out successfully during windy weather. This is one reason why there are more mosquitoes on quiet evenings.

"The best way to get rid of mosquitoes is to destroy their breeding places, for the adults never fly far. This not only means draining swamps and filling in ponds, but gathering up tomato cans, putting netting over troughs and rain water barrels, watching the eave troughs. If it is impossible to get rid of standing water near your premises, oil placed on ponds will kill the larvae when they come up to breathe. Kerosene or any light fuel oil will serve for this purpose. About one ounce of oil will cover 15 square feet. Applications should be made once a week."

DONALD REFUSES TO PAY THE TAX

Because of the Uncertainties Raised in Forestry Suit Payment Is Not Made

MADISON, Wis., June 1.—Because of the uncertainties raised in the suit over the constitutionality of the state to maintain a state forestry reserve, Secretary of State John S. Donald has declined to pay the taxes on the state land within the reserve. The Stevens bill enacted at the last session of the legislature directed the state tax commission to value the state forestry lands within the counties of Forest, Iron, Oneida, Price and Vilas, and the state was to pay a tax on these lands for local and county purposes. The valuation was fixed last November by the commission at $1,270,131 and the total tax to be paid by the state to the localities in the above counties was fixed at $15,876.88.

Refuses Payments

Although the amount of this tax was due after Dec. 1 last year, and under the law was to have been paid the same as all other taxes before March 15, the secretary of state has declined to make the payments on the ground that if the court decided that the state did not have the right to buy these lands it had no title and having no title it could not be compelled to pay the tax. Secretary Donald has declined the requests for payments by the local county treasurers on this ground.

Best to Go Slow

A few days ago one of the country treasurers notified the secretary of state that unless these taxes were paid the state lands would be advertised and sold for taxes. Secretary Donald immediately notified the county treasurer that it would be best to "go slow" as the title of lands sold by that method when the matter was still being litigated in the courts might be invalidated. All of the county treasurers to whom this state money was due have made a demand upon the state for the amounts due.

The tax commission valued the state lands within the counties of Forest, Iron, Oneida, Price and Vilas at $1,270,131, fixing the amount of state taxes due on state lands in Forest county at $4,018.16; Iron county, $1,858.51; Oneida county, $3,558.26; Price county, $400.63 and Vilas county, $6,041.10. Secretary Donald believes that the injunction served on him yesterday to maintain the status quo in the forestry matters is an added reason why these monies should not be paid by the state at this time.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

WHEN BUBBLES BURST

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Nanette stood staring incredulously at the little white frame bungalow across the street. It was just possible that the old man of whom she had inquired the way had made a mistake.

"I don't believe Elsie would live in such a dot of a place," she thought in amazement. "But then there is only one way to find out," and she began to pick her way across the muddy unpaved street.

Her appearance contrasted strongly with the modest, almost poor neighborhood. There was distinction and style about her that smacked of wealth, a French milliner and first-class tailor. Her seal traveling bag, gold purse and a certain exquisiteness of all accessories bespoke prosperity.

As she crossed the street she marshaled her thoughts quickly. If she should happen to find the Jack Langleys living in this little mushroom of a house she must be careful not to let Elsie know the true state of affairs—that she and Gerald had had a dreadful quarrel that very morning. She bit her lip as she thought of the things he had said. And just because he had received the bills for her hat and new suit! Altogether it was only $225. He was forever preaching economy and declaring that he could not stand her extravagance.

A great many things flashed through her brain during her short journey across the street that brought back the angry flush to her cheeks, and she thought with satisfaction of the way she had defended herself to her husband. She had parried so skillfully that he had found himself on the defensive. Why had he married her if he could not support her with her accustomed comfort? It was humiliating for her to be the only one in her set without a car, and it was insulting for him to take exception to the cost of her clothes which she considered quite low.

Among other things she had cited the Langleys as examples of the very affluence she coveted. A year before she had visited Elsie in an immense house where she was waited upon hand and foot by servants, and there was evidence of wealth on every hand. From Jack's specially made racing car to Elsie's last string of pearls. In vain she had pleaded with Gerald to try the stock market, dwelling on the luck of the Langleys. And Gerald had laughed, saying that it was a bubble too likely to burst.

She went up the steps of the little porch, thinking of what Gerald had said about the bubble.

Elsie in her letter had asked her to Clayfield to visit them, it is true, but she had supposed it to be a new summer home of some sort. Well, there might still be a mistake.

But pretty Elsie Langley, herself, answered the bell.

"You darling!" she cried, almost dropping the baby she held in her effort to throw both arms around her visitor. "I'm so glad Gerald would let you come. Come on in and let me have a good look at you. What a darling hat! And who made your suit? You look stunning! It's been so long since I've seen a tailor made rig. I'm starved for the sight of one. They don't go 'em here." She laughed, half pulling, half shoving Nanette into the little parlor and depositing her in a chair.

Nanette was trying her well-bred best not to show surprise. But for Elsie, in a gingham dress, with a baby in her arms, to be answering her own door, and even taking her bag was a most astonishing thing. Something had surely happened.

"Did you have any trouble finding us?"

"Not very much. I asked two or three people."

Elsie laughed again easily. "I should have told you to bring field glasses. We're so small we're hard to find. Are you surprised, Nanette?" suddenly serious.

"It was useless to feign disinterest."

"A little, Elsie, dear. What is it—an experiment?"

"Come on upstairs, Nan. I have your little room ready. Then I'll put baby to bed, and we'll have a little chat. I want to tell you all about it. I couldn't in a letter."

A little later Nanette learned the truth, all quickly told. There wasn't much. The bubble had burst. The Langley's had nothing. They were beginning all over again. Jack had a clerkship in an office.

"Tell me. Are you happy? You have always had everything."

"Never was happier in my life."

"I don't see how you do it. You say you have only one maid."

"I get up early and work. I feel splendid for the exercise. You ought to see me sweep."

"But the children—and no nurse!"

"I am just getting acquainted with them. I'm learning to sew, too. I've made Buddy five new pairs of rompers."

"Elsie!"

"And Genevieve a new coat out of my pink party coat."

"Elsie!"

"And all my own gingham dresses, and pajamas and shirts for Jack, and all the Swiss custains in the house, and—"

"Elsie!"

Nanette's mouth was wide open with amazement.

Mrs. Langley went on quickly. "It is such a relief too, now that I don't have to worry about Jack racing any more. You know I was always afraid he'd been killed. He feels so much bet, too, since he's been walking to places. And as for my jewels—they were only a burden. I'm glad to be able to sleep without thinking of thieves."

Nanette having no reply to make to these astonishing facts, Mrs. Langley rattled on as though she thought her remarks were merely causing a gratifying sensation in her visitor's breast.

She went on with a laugh. "You won't believe me, I suppose, dear, when I tell you I bought my spring suit off a hook for $20, and trimmed my own hat. I did feel odd in the hand-me-down at first. I love tailor made, but Jack declares I never looked so well in anything. At any rate, I have the satisfaction of not worrying him. I know it's within his means. But you're tired hearing all this. Do tell me about yourself, dear."

Nanette had risen. "Elsie, dear, there is something I— Well, if you don't mind, I'll tell you all about it sometime again. You'll think I'm crazy, I know, but I have just thought of something. I think I'll not unpack my bag. I'd better get back home right away. I'll come again later in the summer. You won't mind, dear, will you? You have a darling little home and I'd like to stay, but— Dearie, I'll be honest. It's about Gerald. We've quarreled, and I want to get home before he gets there this evening."

Kind little Elsie seemed to understand with wonderful quickness, and sped the parting guest.

Nanette got home just in time to tear up the note she had left for her husband. He came in as the scraps fluttered into the basket.

Nanette for the first time noticed the strain in his face, the graying hair and the stooping shoulders.

"Dearest!" she went to him and pulled his tired head to her breast. "I'm sorry! I'm going to try so hard at this to help. Let's give up this place. We can take a little house, and I'll learn to work. Just we two! It will be loads of fun! We really ought to catch up soon and save money."

With a happy sigh he kissed her. The years of care seemed to fall away.

Miles away in Clayfield Mrs. Langley had put the babies to bed and was busy with dinner. In the pantry she leaned against the icebox an instant and wiped away a tear. She was very, very tired. "I'm glad I did what Jack asked. He felt so sorry for Gerald, and I'm sure Nanette will do better now. It just took an hour instead of a week, and it's a good thing, for I'm afraid if she'd stayed she would have discovered that—that it's not all so easy."

Throw Away Your Eye-Glasses!

A FREE PRESCRIPTION

You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye-strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing, say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seemed clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and attain more vision than they are able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optona. Fill a two ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one Optona tablet and allow to dissolve. With this liquid, bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

OH! FOR THE CAUCUS OF THE GOOD OLD DAYS!

Mr. Barber's recent political advertisement attacking the primary law deserves notice to the extent of pegging it as one of the "reform" notions that those for whom he writes, if they get control of the legislature, will repeal.

Get that? If the stalwarts should win they would repeal the primary law.

Why?

Because, according to Mr. Barber, the good old ways of the "good old days" when certain gentlemen got together in a back room and picked out delegates who would vote for candidates "satisfactory" to the railroads and other big interests were "all right."

Of course, Mr. Barber doesn't put it that way.

Mr. Barber gives as his reason why he prefers the old caucus and convention system—and he devoutly believes he's right—certain statements purporting to be facts, which are proof of nothing at all.

He says that under the caucus system an average of some dozen voters to the precinct went to the caucuses, voted without the inspiration of a higher authority for delegates to the county convention, and that the delegates plus the caucus voters numbered about 500 in La Crosse county. He neglects to say that the late Tom Withee, the late Eugene Perkins and the late Mr. Cargill passed out the names of the delegates.

Now Mr. Barber goes on to say that, in La Crosse county, four men do the work of these 500: Morris, McConnell, Bosshard and Wing. He "defies anyone to show a single nomination that was not sanctioned by" these four men.

In reply, we cite Mr. Barber's own nomination and election as supervisor.

Further, conceding Mr. Barber's rather high estimate of twelve men per precinct in the old caucus days (with the delegates something over 500 in the county) he has about one-eighth as many taking part as take part in the primaries today. No, we are not going to quote Morris, McConnell, Bosshard or Wing. We are going to quote from Mr. Barber's ally, a man whose vocation is writing ads for railroads and sandwiching them in political letters the writing of which is his avocation. Mr. Ellis B. Usher's favorite complaint is that "only about 65 per cent of the electors vote in the primaries"—some 4,000 in La Crosse county to Mr. Barber's claim of 500 for the old caucus system.

Now, plainly, if Mr. Barber's stalwart candidates could get the votes of 2,100 of those 4,000 primary voters, he wouldn't mind Messrs. Bosshard, Wing, McConnell and Morris—would he? And does he think the majority of those 4,000 free citizens take orders from Wing, Morris, McConnell and Bosshard? Truly, these be mighty gentlemen!

No indeed, these men have no such power. Suppose, for instance, they were to give it out tomorrow that they wanted the 4,000 primary voters to nominate Mr. Barber for the legislature on a standpat platform, how far would they get with it?

To prove it is not the men, but what they stand for, that wins the votes, take this angle:

Isn't it a fact that for the past dozen years, as elections approached, Mr. Barber, Mr. Gordon, Mr. Van Auken and Mr. Smith have got together and singled out candidates whom they would like to have elected? And haven't these candidates always been defeated?

Now Mr. Barber, Mr. Gordon, Mr. Van Auken and Mr. Smith will hardly concede that Mr. Morris, Mr. Bosshard, Mr. McConnell and Mr. Wing are so much more influential than themselves that they can by a mere edict defeat the stalwart candidates these gentlemen propose.

Certainly not. The secret is that Messrs. Morris, Bosshard, McConnell and Wing support men and measures the majority of voters favor, and Messrs. Barber, Gordon, Van Auken and Smith support men and measures the majority of voters do not want.

And under the primary system, the majority of voters get what they want, while under the old caucus system, in the "good old days," Messrs. Barber, Gordon, Van Auken and Smith got what they wanted.

Hence, with delightful frankness, Mr. Barber is opposed to the primary and wants the caucus. Perfectly plain isn't it?

"PATRIOTISM IS NOT DEAD"

Not so many weeks ago one of the leading magazines published an article saying that "Patriotism is Dead."

Would that the person who wrote that article, and the editor of the periodical in which it appeared, had been at Oak Grove cemetery Saturday morning!

The writer would have hastened back to his office in the east and he would have written:

Patriotism is not dead.

Three thousand persons gathered at Oak Grove cemetery in La Crosse, Wis., Memorial day to pay honor to the nation's dead. Over 500 children, from 6 to 14 years of age, marched through the streets of La Crosse, followed by hundreds of citizens, with members of the military orders.

Not a grave in Oak Grove cemetery was without its quota of flowers Memorial day. The large crowd listened intently to a long and analytical speech on "Patriotism," and sat in the hot sun to do it.

Patriotism is not dead.

Simple Explanation.

The difference between the man's method and the woman's method of striking a match, writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle, seems fairly simple of explanation. I fancy tobacco is at the bottom of it. Up to comparatively recently, women struck matches to light fires or candles or gas, and naturally struck away from them. Men, having acquired the tobacco habit, naturally struck towards them, both for the sake of convenience and sheltering the flame in the hand from wind. You will notice that a good many women who smoke have now adopted the man's method of striking. I don't think the psychology of the matter goes any deeper than this, unless you are disposed to accept a Victorian definition of woman as "a creature who can't argue and pokes the fire from the top."

It will soon be Morgan day before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Details as to why Mellen was dismissed will be made clear, and they may or may not explain why $8,000,000 worth of trolleys were bought for $20,000,000.

Russell Mott was passing through the lobby of Hotel La Salle the other day when an attractive young lady bowed to him. The attorney doffed his hat, but somehow or other couldn't locate his pretty acquaintance.

"How do you do," he said, advancing to shake hands; "where have you been all these days?"

"Why, in the same old place," said the young lady, mystified.

"It's been a long time since I saw you. You've been well, I hope?"

"O, perfectly well," said the girl, smiling.

"You must drop in and see my wife some time. She would be glad to see you."

He Learned His Value

A tourist in Scotland came to a wide ferry. It was stormy and the wind was constantly increasing, says Youth's Companion. The Scotch ferryman agreed to take the tourist across, but told him to wait until he had first taken a cow across.

When he had returned and started across with the traveler the latter became curious.

"Will you tell me why you took the cow across and made me wait?" he asked.

"Well, now," explained the ferryman, "you see the cow was valuable, and I feared th' wind wud increase so th' bote might upset on th' second trip!"

Irrigates the Blood
Knocks Rheumatism

A Remedy That Flushes the Blood from Head to Foot.

To get rid of rheumatism requires that the blood be completely flushed—not a mere makeshift as by salts and brain killers. The long record of S. S. S. is important to know. It has found its way into every section of the nation. It is the most widely used and most widely talked-of remedy there is for all blood troubles. It is a known fact that rheumatism is primarily a blood trouble.

It is conceded by the closest students of the subject that rheumatism is caused in most cases by an acid condition of the blood and aggravated by the remedies commonly used for relief. In other cases rheumatism is the result of nerve depression; in still others it is the effect of some vitiated blood, having been caused by the use of mercury, iodides, arsenic, and other poisonous mineral drugs.

The recoveries of all these types of rheumatism by the use of S. S. S. is a wonderful tribute to the natural efficacy of this remarkable medicine, for it is assimilated just as naturally, just as specifically, and just as well ordered as the most acceptable, most palatable and most readily digested food. Do not fail to get a bottle of S. S. S. today, but insist upon S. S. S. Don't accept a substitute. You will be astonished at the results. features of Congressman Samuel J. Tribble of Georgia the other night when the talk topic in the lobby of a Washington hotel turned to the wonderful sayings of the kiddies. He said he was reminded of a recent incident.

A fond father was taking his little six year old daughter downtown in an automobile, and on stopping in front of a store he noticed that the drive against the strong wind had made the youngster's eyes water.

"Just a minute, Jessie," said the father, wrapping a corner of his handkerchief around one finger and dabbing the little girl's eyes. "Let me wipe that tear away."

"Sav," was the rather amazing exclamation of Jessie, "what do you think that is—a push button?"

Only One Chance

"Ya-as," said the old man who sat combing his whiskers with his fingers in a Jamestown hotel, while John Wells of Buffalo was waiting for his lecture hour to roll around, says Judge.

"Yes?" echoed John, anxious to get his mind off his lecture and out to something pleasant.

"Ya-as, our parson done wrong. We was disappointed."

"As to what?"

"Well, you see, old Comrade Jeb Sutton an' Aunt Jane Priddy died th' same week. Our parson ain't none too plentiful with 's sermons, especially funeral ones. So he was up aginst it an' preached identical th' same sermon for each one of 'em. Jest exactly th' same—well, I might say he did leave out Jane's war record."

Kept on "Layin'"

Anthony Comstock at a luncheon in New York said of certain tabooed books and plays:

"The motive of these works was perhaps all right. But the expression, the form, was bad. And that spoiled the motive completely."

"Expression, form, you know, is everything. Consider how the lack of it spoiled the mason's speech."

"A mason at a memorial service said of a bricklayer who had been accidentally killed:

"Yes, gents, I looked out once on the beauties of nature, and all was calm. Our friend, deceased here, was layin' a brick. I looked out once again, and still all was calm, but our friend, deceased, was no more. He was layin' a corpse."—Washington Herald.

This got me immediate notice from my attendants, whoever they were, for steps quickly approached where I lay, and someone raised my head.

"Here, my chicken, take a pull at this," I heard a strange voice say, and a glass was held to my lips.

It contained brandy, as I knew by the odor, and I took great, thirsty swallows.

"God! You have given him enough!" I heard a second man's voice say.

Swiftly after I had drunk of the brandy all pain left me. My temples still throbbed, it is true, but the hurt of it was not nearly so great. I wondered where I was. I thought of Mary, and of the failure of my plans. We had been betrayed, doubtless. No matter, I would get word to her presently—presently. My mind seemed to dwell on the word, and then sleep, or its counterfeit, came to my senses, and all was a blank.

Next I heard what sounded like the distant roar of cannon; the dull echoes lifted me out of the black depths into which I had fallen, each surging burst of sound bringing me nearer complete consciousness. I listened, desperately intent, timing the reports by the throbbing of my pulse, and then the reverberations died away in the distance, and there was silence.

After another interval, though how long it endured I knew not, I again issued from my stupor. For a time I lay scarce on the edge of consciousness, with the black void from which I had emerged a menace. At first I had no memory of any part of what had occurred; then little by little, I recalled how I had gone into Aldersgate Street to my rendezvous with Mary; next, the fight in the lane came back to me. But what had happened to me since then I could not say.

Presently I became aware of sounds which I was barely able to distinguish as the speech of men. Sometimes this speech was boisterous, and sometimes it was a mere distant and confused murmur; but to fix any meaning to what I heard was beyond me, though I came to understand that these men, who were always talking or laughing or singing, were very near to me, and that there was a medley of other sounds and movements; for now I seemed raised aloft, and then I sank, and then I was lifted again; not just myself, but the very bed on which I lay partook of this movement, and all of this while there was a groaning and creaking going on, now underneath me, now above me, now at my side, and with the groaning and creaking was a curious rushing sound to which I could fix no name. Yet it troubled me not a little for this very reason: but of all the sounds that tormented me I was most aware of the voices.

This continued indefinitely, interminably; whether for hours or days I could not tell. But at last I was able to catch single words and sentences, and then I knew that one man appeared to be doing most of the talking; save for an occasional word here and there he had it all his own way.

"Aye, it galled us to be taunted by those heathen, who would sometimes tell us we were growing fat for want of exercise! This, I say, nettled us; yet to me it brought a special honour, for one day a Turkish officer came from the town under a flag of truce. He was taken before our commander, to whom he delivered his message, saying how it was reported we would go as we had come, without assaulting the city, and that rather than it should be said that we had no fight with them, his Lord Tubershaw had sent him with a challenge to any captain, with whom he would fight, each for the other's head."

There was a pause, and then: "It was decided choice should be made by lot, and to my great pride the lot fell to me."

Here I lost the voice, and for a time could only distinguish a confused murmur, but presently my brain seemed to clear.

"Our troops were drawn up, leaving a fair field for the combat, whilst the walls were crowded by the Turks. At the sounding of trumpet we charged, and I had such luck that I struck my opponent through the sights of his helmet, so that he fell to the ground. His head I presented to that most noble and Christian prince, our general, who graciously accepted it."

In a kind of a heavy stupor I had heard all this, but whether the voice was real or not I was unable to say; indeed, I was almost ready to forswear the evidence of my senses, and count it naught but part and parcel of some dream. But the voice went on, with an eager, ringing note to it, and pitched a little louder than the majority of "The Turks chaffed at the overthrow of their champion, more especially one of his friends, who, for very madness sent me a particular challenge. I could not with honour have refused to meet him. So the next day the same space was cleared and the same scene enacted. At the sound of the trumpet we made our charge, and met with a great shock, so that our lances were shattered, and the Turk night unhorsed; whirling, we each discharged a shot from our pistols. The Turk's bullet hit me on the breastplate and glanced off, but mine took effect in his left arm, and he fell from his horse and lay bruised and stunned. After this the Turks made some sallies every day, but to no purpose, so that to fill up the time, I being then very young and somewhat foolhardy, sent a message to the ladies of the Turks that I was not so enamoured of their lovers' heads but I would give them to anyone of rank who would reclaim them by combat. This challenge failed not of its effect, and was accepted by a Turk of rank called Bonny Mulgro. We fought on the same grounds as before, but under somewhat different conditions—

"Sure, you were killed this time, Captain!" a voice broke in.

And at this sally there went up a great shout of laughter, but suddenly it died away in a long painful silence, such as one might feel, and in the pause I felt my bed rise and sink, and rise again, with that strange motion I could by no means understand, and I heard what seemed to be the wind whistling and shrieking through the bare branches of trees. Then I caught the voice of the first speaker, who said very deliberately and with a chilling kind of courtesy:

Do You Need Building Up?

There are conditions of ill health in which no one particular organ appears to be at fault, yet the patient is miserable and unable to pursue the activities of daily life with vigor and enjoyment. Sometimes the cause is attributed to the imagination but the patient knows that the debility is real.

The remedy evidently is a medicine that will benefit the whole system rather than a part. The blood reaches everywhere and an improvement in its quality is quickly followed by an improvement in the whole organism. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make a visible improvement in the condition of the blood. The microscope will verify this improvement but the patient can see it in the mirror as shown by increased color in cheeks and lips and added brightness of the eyes. There will also be a new elasticity in the step. These things record an improved tone in the body and if this tonic treatment is persisted in for a reasonable length of time, depending upon the degree of debility, the condition of ill health will be removed.

Those who are interested may obtain the pamphlet "Building Up the Blood" free on request from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

PRESIDENT TALKS DEFENDING CHANGE

Upholds as Fair to Labor Amendment Carrying
"Exemption" Privileges

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Labor is given nothing more in the accepted "exemption" amendments to the anti-trust program than capital already enjoys, in the opinion of President Wilson.

The president, who today resumed his semi-weekly conferences with the newspaper correspondents, indicated that the effect of the proposed amendments is simply to clear up the doubtful ground in the Sherman law. Under this amendment, he said, there could be no questioning the right to organize and exist, while the unions would still be answerable to the law if they violated it.

The president emphatically denied that boycotting would be legalized. He explained all that was done by the amendment to regulate the issuance of injunctions and to prevent them being used as weapons to crush strikes.

The only time some people aim accurately is when they throw bouquets at themselves.

SOCIETY

LUNCHEON FOR MISS LISTMAN

Mrs. Mary Shadbolt entertained half a dozen friends at luncheon Saturday in honor of Miss Jane Listman of Duluth, Minn. A decoration was a pyramid of flags which centered the table. Small flags were laid at each plate. The guests were Mrs. W. E. Sawyer, Mrs. Mary Austin, Miss Gertrude Hogan, Mrs. C. S. Van Aiken, Miss Alice Beckington and Mrs. W. L. Crosby. Miss Listman was formerly of this city and the guests were all old friends of hers.

300 ATTEND PICNIC

Three hundred or more F. R. A. members and their friends attended the picnic given by the lodge at Myrick park Memorial day. Great interest was manifested in the games and other amusements arranged for the afternoon. The ladies' baseball game between the White Sox and the Crackerjacks proved the feature of the day, the former winning by the score of 14 to 10, after nine innings of the grilling work under the hot slants of old Sol.

The game between the Sluggers and the Bootleggers ended in a victory for the Sluggers, 9 to 7. The peanut race furnished no end of fun, the event being won by Alice Mockley. Ruth Dittman won the ball throwing event among the women, and Edwin Singer among the men. Lillian Nowak captured first place in the women's foot race. Arthur McGuire finished first for the men.

In the tug of war, which took the tuggers over a considerable portion of the park, the south side Sampsons won.

The refreshment tent was managed well under the direction of Mesdames E. T. Freeman, Grebner, Braun, Noble, Finn, Schmidt and Chamberlain.

A baseball league will be organized among the members of the order, the games to be played at other picnics which will be held now and then during the summer. A pennant will be the object of play.

MAY BREAKFAST.

The camp girls of the Young Woman's Christian association served a May breakfast to approximately one hundred and fifty people at the association building on the morning of Memorial Day. The breakfast was served out of doors, and the lawn presented a pretty and animated scene, with the small tables decorated with flags spread under the trees, and a bevy of young girls in light summer gowns flitting here and there attending to the wants of the guests. A neat sum was realized as a result of the affair, which will go towards the maintenance expenses of the summer camp of the Y. W. C. A.

PICNIC AT LAW COTTAGE

A party of ladies pre-empted the Law cottage at Onalaska on Memorial day and held a picnic there. In the party were Mrs. Emma Law, Mrs. W. R. Finch, Mrs. Andrew Lees, Mrs. J. W. Skinner, Mrs. Abby Burton, Mrs. E. E. Marston, Mrs. W. R. Still, Miss Frances Sill and Miss Hattie Jefferson. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fertig of Minneapolis, who were here for the day, were also guests.

Three farms in La Crosse are represented at the convention—the farms of W. R. Miller, the Von der Ohe brothers and K. O. Gardner. Their owners are in Fort Atkinson today.

The visitors Friday will first visit the prize winning farms and then tour the rest of the county, stopping at the agricultural school.

DIABETIC GANGRENE

When gangrene appears in Diabetes, it is commonly looked upon as the beginning of the end, but that such cases have gotten results is a matter of evidence. Here's another—

Patient, Wm. H. McGowan, machinist, S. P. R. R. shops, Sparks, Nevada. In June, 1913, was in bed with Diabetes with gangrene, one half of one toe having been eaten off. Fultons Diabetic Compound was administered with an antiseptic lotion to cleanse the wound.

On January 19th, 1914, patient reported—"My foot has healed. Am working every day and getting around as well as ever. I don't think I have any more Diabetes."

The ability of Fultons Diabetic Compound to oppose Hepatic degeneration and reduce sugar in many cases of Diabetes in people over fifty is not a matter of opinion but a FACT IN PHYSICS and we will send formula that will show the percentage of sugar from week to week. As the sugar disappears improvement commonly follows. Sugar formula and literature mailed on request. John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco. For sale at druggists.

Bright Colors Make a Notable Feature of Summer Styles

SELDOM has warm weather seen so much bright color used as is fashionable this season but happily it is, for the most part, combined with subdued tones, so that there is nothing really aggressive and only the picturesque note remains. Green is a pronounced favorite and it is claimed that at least one gown of that color is found in every French woman's wardrobe. Cerise is much liked and there are wonderful yellows and blues that are fascinating but, for the time, the tango shades are a bit passé. The two costumes illustrated are typical. The young girl's frock shows one of the prettiest of the draped skirts in tunic effect combined with a kimono blouse and this blouse has the great advantage of giving a slight V at the back of the neck as well as a deeper one at the front. It is really made in just two straight pieces finished with frills and overlapped and its very simplicity is its greatest charm. The materials that are shown here are cotton crepe embroidered in cerise and cerise taffeta but such a design can be copied in many different ways and many different materials. This makes a charming afternoon dress. If lace flouncing were substituted for the frock adapted to dances, dinners and occasions of the kind and, to whatever use the design is put, it is exceedingly attractive.

The green gown is of taffeta with black and white striped voile and it is hard to think of any smarter combination.

HINTS FOR THE NEEDLE WOMEN

THE flowers and leaves are designed to be worked in long and short stitch or to be simply outlined. The seed pods are to be worked in solid embroidery, the stems and veins are to be outlined and the stems worked in French knots.

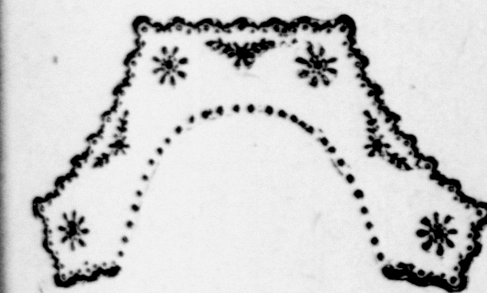

To work long and short stitch take irregular stitches close together working slantwise from the center toward the outer edge of the pattern; no padding is required.

No. 765. Design for embroidering a cover for a pillow or cushion twenty-two inches square.

SIMPLE DESIGN FOR A COLLAR

THE scalloped edge is to be padded and buttonholed; the dots, leaves and ovals of the conventional figures are to be worked as eyelets; the small flowers in solid embroidery, and the stems are to be made in outline stitch.

No. 488. Design suitable for embroidering a fancy collar.

To pad a continuous scallop rapidly and effectively, cut a skein of thread, apply to two or more strands over the center of the stamped pattern keeping within the lines; tack here and there in couching fashion, gathering the threads closely at each point of the scallops, and then proceed to button-hole closely over this foundation. To work the dots as eyelets, first encircle by running a thread around the outline, pierce with a stiletto and work closely over and over. To make the leaves and ovals as eyelets, first run a thread around the stamped figure, then cut a slight slit lengthwise then crosswise, push back the material and work closely over and over.

PRETTY MODELS FOR THE LITTLE CHILDREN

SUMMER FROCKS ARE CHARMING BOTH IN COLOR AND DESIGN

For Midsummer the Round Neck and Short Sleeves are Both Pretty and Comfortable.

HERE is a dress for little girls that includes the wide belt that is a new and smart feature, overlapped edges, and all the newest touches. In the illustration it is made of blue linen trimmed with black and white, and the combination is a charming one, but the design is adapted to a great many different materials. It would be very pretty in lawn, exceedingly smart in pique, and the trimming can be in contrasting fabric or color.

BLOUSE frocks are always pretty and extremely fashionable but, for the little fold, the one-piece dress has its advantages. This model is all in one, yet gives the blouse effect. The little skirt, or plaited portion, is stitched to the body portion and the closing is made at the back while the fronts of the blouse are overlapped. For mid-summer, the round neck and short sleeves are both pretty and comfortable, but mothers who are looking ahead will be glad to know that the dress can be made with high neck and long sleeves as well. Blue linen chambray is the material illustrated and it is finished with scallops of white. Dresses such as this are made from any childlike material, the thinner washable ones for immediate wear and heavy linen, pique, serge and the like for the future.

Rose-colored linen would be charming with trimming of white, or white could be trimmed with color, such as the bright red and blue that are being so much used. The dress is a very easy one to make, as well as a very attractive one. The plain fronts are overlapped and the little trimming piece is stitched under them, and the backs are laid in one box-pleat each and finished with hems.

LATEST FASHION NOTES FROM THE FASHION CENTERS

THERE is a certain old tradition that is still extant among some conservative folk that the tenth of May really marks the opening of spring and that then and not until then it is safe to don spring clothing. Today we are inclined to remember the tradition and to ascribe to it some measure of truth, for it is warm and summerlike and the air is balmy. Already we are inclined to forget that the earlier spring has been cold and damp and disagreeable. Verily and indeed it is true that there is never more cloud than sunshine and the happy tendency to forget the shadow as soon as the sun bursts forth again emphasizes the truth to a certain extent.

Here in old Gotham, we are seeing really beautiful spring costumes and, incidentally, discovering novelties at almost every turn while from across the sea comes the news that the season has fairly opened and that styles are established for a brief time at least. To be sure we live in an age of unrest and fashions change almost as suddenly as do the winds. From whence they come or where they go is often difficult to determine and there is very little that is stable left in the world of dress, but, happily for lovers of real beauty, a conservative movement is afoot and, whatever development may or may not come with the later season, there is a tendency toward the improvement of line, toward getting away from the extremes that have become notoriously unpleasant and toward a general atmosphere of grace that must be welcome. Some time ago, it was stated that Parisian designers were employing noted artists and sculptors to devise a new figure for womanhood and we all know with what wonderful adaptability woman can remake herself, but, while such rather extreme statements appear now and then, general reports tend to a saner condition and to a realization by the better artists that art is art and beauty is beauty in spite of all that the dressmakers can do to distort both.

Summer fashions are really beautiful. If any individual fails to achieve charm in her costume, she herself is at fault. The exaggeratedly narrow skirt has disappeared. We have tunics and draperies that take beautiful lines and, while the skirts beneath are by no means wide, they are not awkward or over tight. Colors and materials were never so beautiful. Coats and jackets are becomingly loose and graceful as well as comfortable for warm weather wear and the cape has developed into a hundred interesting variations adapted to many uses.

The really greatest dressmakers of Paris are combining to advocate real beauty in line and in drapery and avoidance of the extremes that have been only too evident during the past year. If we go amiss, if we welcome fashions that are bizarre, it will be our own fault. We will have yielded to the cry of "change, change at any cost" and have only ourselves to thank.

There is some talk of the long, close basque of the 1880s period with the full skirt below and the hip drapery but as has been pointed out by a noted authority in matters of dress, the costume was worn when tight corsets had been in vogue for many years, when women's figures were accustomed to the pressure that they must inevitably mean. The long, close basque, or Jersey, as it was called, worn over the corsets of today is grotesque. Let us hope that those women who rule the world of fashions will have too great regard for health and for comfort to consent to the return to any design that entails such evils as the tiny waist and the hour glass effect. Time was, and not so long ago, when two or three great designers established the fashions for a season.

PRETTY HATS FOR LITTLE GIRLS

LINGERIE hats are always dainty and pretty for summer wear and here are two of the newest and smartest. No. 1 is made all in one piece. In the picture, the edges are simply scalloped but, if preferred, a more elaborate embroidery can be used but, in either case, the edges are laced together by means of ribbon passed through eyelets so that it is very easy to open out and launder. No. 2 is made from embroidered flouncing, four wedge-shaped pieces being stitched together, while ribbon passed through big button-holes makes the trimming. Both hats are very simple and easy to make and they are both charming in effect. Pique and linen are the preferred materials for No. 1, and No. 2 can be made from any pretty flouncing or from plain material trimmed on its edges.

No. 1 will require 1/2 yd. of material 27 or 36 in. wide, No. 2 1 1/2 yds. of embroidery 11 1/2 in. wide, with 2 yds. of ribbon 3 in. wide for either and 4 yds. of narrow ribbon for the lacings of No. 1.

The St. Louis Browns spanked them yesterday, Sam Crawford's home run preventing a whitewash. Two Cardinal twirlers suffered much bombardment while the Cubs were winning 11 to 1. The White Sox drew 10,000, the Federals 6,000 and the Cubs only about 2,500, according to best newspaper guesses. The Studebaker SIX has the largest proportion of manufactured parts.

They have been so heat treated by strictly scientific methods that they are both lighter and immensely stronger.

Studebaker SIX standards demand that the front axle shall withstand being twisted seven times upon itself without a crack.

They demand that the rear axle shafts shall stand the same terrific torsion test.

They demand perfect alignment, perfect lubrication and perfect balance, to the end that friction and vibration shall be eliminated and long life promoted.

But chiefly they demand that not one of the many economies arising from the lightness of the Studebaker SIX shall be purchased at sacrifice of strength or steadiness.

LA CROSSE WALKS AWAY WITH MEET

Nearest Competitor, Sparta, Has 24 to the Local School's 61 in Normal Interscholastic

NICOL OF SPARTA INDIVIDUAL STAR

Wins First in 100 and 440 Yard Dashes and Second in the High Hurdles

The La Crosse high school won the first annual interscholastic track and field meet given by the local normal school last Saturday afternoon at the fair grounds. They scored a total of 61 points, Sparta, their nearest competitor, having 24. Viola was close on the heels of Sparta with 22 points. The only other school to place was Virgoqua, which school took third in the mile run.

A great deal of disappointment was felt over the failure of La Farge and Ontario to send the teams they had entered. It is almost certain that their men would have won points. To the La Crosse high school goes the Rose cup donated by the Rose Jewelry company for winning the meet. They also have possession of the Doerflinger cup, donated by the Doerflinger store, for one year for winning the relay race. This cup must be won three successive years for permanent possession.

The individual point winner of the meet was A. Nicol of Sparta. He won first place in the 100 yard dash and in the 440 yard run. He also finished second in the 120 yard high hurdles, giving him a total of thirty points. A cup donated by the faculty of the normal school goes to him as individual point honors. His nearest competitors were Taylor and Reget of La Crosse, who scored ten points each. The Sparta banner, also presented with a large banner, the trophy offered to the team winning second place.

There were no records broken in any of the events, but fine time was made in all of them. The half mile was run in 2 minutes and 12 seconds. Taylor who won first place in the shot put at Madison a week ago, heaved the weight six inches further than he did at that meet. The poorest time of the day was the mile run. G. Smith of Virgoqua lagged behind a field of a dozen men for three quarters. He then started to sprint, filled up the gap, passed the whole field and finished within a few feet of Looker and Ambrose, who finished first and second. The sprinters of local high school took all three places in the 220 yard dash, a feat seldom accomplished by any school.

A reception was held in the normal school after the meet, when the cups and medals were given out. Regent William A. Wolfe gave an address and congratulated the winners. He also presented the cups. The medals were presented by Dr. C. B. Sputh, had of the normal physical education department. Dancing followed the speeches.

The order of events and winners is as follows:
220 yard low hurdles—Decker, Viola, first; Kulzinski, La Crosse, second; Bold, Viola, third. Time, 28.3-5 seconds.
High jump—Reget and Adair, La Crosse, tied for first; R. Button, Sparta, third. Height, 5 feet 3 in.
880 yard run—E. Button, Sparta, first; Ambrose, Viola, second.

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, June 1.—Prices were generally a shade under Friday's closing figures at the opening and the market was dull.

Attendance was light, as many of those who left town over the holiday week end had not returned. Dealing originated for the most part in the room.

11 a. m.—The market showed a technically good position at the end of the first hour. There was an improvement in strength and activity.

Missouri Pacific reached its highest price for some time when it sold up 19 1/2.

Noon.—Trading was dull during the second hour, the market apparently waiting for settlement of the Missouri Pacific matter. There was a sufficiently confident feeling on this to sustain prices even when trading practically ceased.

2 p. m.—The market was exceedingly quiet during the early afternoon, slowing down practically to a standstill.

Stock market closed dull.

TEAM WINS GAME BUT ALSO LOSES

Claim Is Made that They Were Robbed by Unfair Umpire at Sparta Game

The Summits were defeated at Sparta at a Memorial day game on Saturday, but they claim that the unfair decisions of the umpire were responsible. Catcher McOmber of Sparta, is also blamed.

The score was 5 to 1. The two teams will meet here in a couple of weeks and the La Crosse aggregation expects to win the game. The batteries were Tanke and Johnson for La Crosse and McOmber and Olson for Sparta.

The game at Onalaska Sunday was different, however. The Summits won a clean victory of 12 to 4 with little trouble.

Tanke was the star of the game, getting two doubles and a triple. The Fuch brothers did likewise. The batteries were N. Johnson and R. Johnson and for Onalaska, Rohnd and Eagan.

MANY ATTEND COMMENCEMENT

Rushford Students Give Excellent Program with Very Good Speeches

RUSHFORD, Minn., June 1.—The commencement exercises given at the opera house last Friday evening were enjoyed by a packed house. The color scheme used in the decorations of the hall was green, white and red, ferns, snowballs and blossoming plants lent aid to the general effect. The figures "1914" composed of green and white, were suspended at the rear of the stage. A march, played by Mrs. H. S. Craig, kept in strict time the steps of the juniors, who coming first, separated and formed an aisle down which the school board, speaker of the evening, a local minister and the graduates themselves, passed in the order named.

Pres. G. E. Maxwell of the Winona state normal school, was selected by the class to give the address. The invocation by Rev. Bantly of the Presbyterian church, was followed by a piano duet by Edith Olson and Mildred Westby. Melvin Tofstad gave the Salutatory, "Excelsior," after which Pres. Maxwell spoke. His address was a ringing appeal to all that is true, noble, self-sacrificing and uplifting in youth and was replete with pointed illustrations from life. His topic, "Three Character Factors," covered the ground of heredity, environment and self control. The salient question of "Which is most important, nature or nurture?" was one of the best which he discussed.

Said he, "The school board asks you, 'What do you know?' The world asks you, 'What can you do?'" Shakespeare and Kipling were quoted on several occasions. None who listened to Pres. Maxwell's talk could fail to know that behind the words there was a nature and make-up that proved his assertion that "we are not creatures of circumstance, but we hold in our own hands the key which will unlock for us the treasure-house of the world's best gifts."

The class history was given by Alice Berg and the senior boys gave a fine selection accompanied by Mrs. Craig on the piano. Ovidia Elken and Einar Strommes, gave and received the class hatchet. Mathew Smith gave the class prophecy, followed by a vocal duet by Effie Blanchfield and Bertha Vaagen. The presentation of the seniors' class gift, three hand painted pictures, was made by Olga Hovde. Mary Eckleson, who gained first honors in scholarship, gave the Valedictory, "Travel and Progress." The class song was given by the seniors. The presentation of the diploma was made by H. M. Smith, president of the school board, and Rev. Bantly dismissed the audience with the benediction.

Memorial Day
The Memorial day services held in the park were enjoyed by a large gathering and an excellent program rendered. Flag drills by numerous pupils, songs and recitations by little tots and several fine selections by the Rushford band were very interesting and the speech of the day, made by Attorney D. S. Prinzing, was one of the best ever given here. Ideal weather made the day one long to be remembered. Mr. Jayne of Independence, Iowa, a Rushford citizen for a time, sang an old time war song, which was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Tyler Back
Mrs. Tyler, a former resident of this city for many years, is here from Chicago, her present home, as guest of her friends in and around this city. Her father, Mr. Patten, makes his home with her, being in his ninety-second year, but quite strong and hearty, nevertheless.

Mathilda Benson Buried
The funeral of Miss Mathilda Benson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Benson, residing near Peterson, was held Saturday, the Rev. Mr. Jaastad officiating. The services were held from the Rushford Lutheran church and interment was made in the Lutheran cemetery, west of this city.

New Invention
Mr. Jayne of Independence, Iowa,

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.

is in the city demonstrating the virtues of a new invention, which burns kerosene in a common kitchen range with an intense heat and no danger of combustion.

Miss Doretha Paulon of South Fork Ridge, will become the bride of Soren Hagen June 3, according to announcements received here. The ceremony will take place at the Highland Prairie church and a reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents.

BEISEL DECISION BEAT LANESBORO

Manager of La Crosse High Baseball Team Admits He Confused the Rules

A statement, made today by Student Manager Harold Beisel, who umpired the recent La Crosse-Lanesboro high school baseball game, seems to rob La Crosse of the honor of a victory and to some extent wipe out the defeat of Lanesboro, indicated by the score of 3 to 2.

Beisel declares that he unintentionally miscalled a play which in all probability would have resulted in the Gophers at least tying the score.

According to Beisel's story the Lanesboro aggregation in one inning had men on second and third and but one out when the La Crosse catcher missed the third strike on the batter. The batter would have easily reached first base but Beisel called him out, confusing the rule providing for the retirement of the batter on an uncaught third strike with first and second, or first, second and third occupied.

Fail to Score
His ruling resulted in two out for Lanesboro with two men on bases. Had he called the play correctly Lanesboro would have had the bases full with but one out. The next batter was retired without any runs being scored.

Games Postponed
Believing that the Lanesboro team should have another opportunity to settle the question of superiority, Beisel during the early part of last week scheduled another game with the Minnesota team but this game was canceled by Coach Fuller upon the instruction of Principal McCormick.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease. Agent, Chas. A. Beyerslag Druggist, 508 Main St.
